

Construction Site Security

In times of recession, theft from building sites and industrial sites is on the increase. Our specialist construction site security guards are trained in protecting sites, by day and by night from a number of threats.

Not all building sites have the luxury of secure fencing, secure borders, and perfect staff; as such our construction security guards provide the construction industry with several advantages - not only do our professional uniformed security guards provide a visual deterrent when the site is closed, but our skilled security staff will act as a firewall during construction hours, only allowing authorised traffic on to the site, and ensuring the payload corresponds with dockets - thus preventing any valuable stock from leaving site without authorisation.

With new close contact technology available today, it is possible for our construction security guarding staff to keep a virtual site log which can be used in many ways - ask us how we can use this system to save you money and track your visitors, contractors, and staff's movements.
